About the Event

The United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs (UN DESA), Division for Public Institutions and Digital Government (DPIDG), is organizing a Regional Forum on Public Service Innovation within the framework of the Continental Celebration of the 2025 African Public Service Day entitled “Enhancing the Agility and Resilience of Public Institutions to Achieve Equitable Governance and Rapidly Address Historical Service Delivery Gaps”. The Africa Public Service Day is being organized by the African Union and the Ministry of Public Service and Human Resource Development of Ethiopia. About 800 participants are expected to attend the APSD including Ministers, Permanent Secretaries, and other high level government officials from Africa as well as representatives of international and regional organizations.

The Regional Forum will be held from 21 to 23 June 2025 at the African Union's Headquarters in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. The forum is directed to Ministers, Senior Public Officers at the level of Permanent Secretaries, Directors, Director Generals, Heads of Agencies and Authorities and Chairman of Boards/Board of Directors in charge of public policy implementation. About 60 participants from Least Developed Countries (LDCs), Landlocked Least Developed Countries (LLDCs), and Small Islands Development States (SIDS) from across African will be in attendance.

The forum is being organized within the framework of the project on “Innovating Public Service Delivery to Achieve the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) through the Transfer and Adaptation of Omnichannel Approaches”, which is being implemented by the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs, through its Division for Public Institutions and Digital Government, thanks to the generous contribution of the Government of the Republic of Azerbaijan. The project aims to enhance the capacities of government officials in selected countries of Africa, Asia as well as Latin America and the Caribbean to promote effective and inclusive public service delivery, leaving no one behind. It will do so by enhancing their capacities to promote innovation and design action plans for omnichannel service delivery systems (online, brick-and-mortar, mobile and other channels), through one-stop-shop (OSS) mechanisms.

Objective

The overall objective of the Regional Forum is to provide a platform to explore new approaches to governance innovation and learn about innovative practices in public service delivery to strengthen governments' capacities to advance the implementation of the Agenda 2063 and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, with a focus on SDG16 on strong institutions, peace and justice.

Agenda 2063 is Africa's blueprint and master plan for transforming Africa into the global powerhouse of the future. The 2030 Agenda highlights the need to build effective, accountable, and inclusive institutions at all levels, in line with Goal 16. General Assembly resolution 60/34 of 17 March 2006 emphasized "the need to improve the efficiency, transparency and accountability of public administration".

Thematic Focus

The focus of the Africa Regional Forum will be on governance innovation and the delivery of agile, inclusive and people-centred services to all. Without effective, accountable, and inclusive public service delivery, there will be little progress in realizing the SDGs. Indeed, out of the 17 SDGs, all Goals have content related to public service delivery. Among 169 SDG targets there are 59 (35%) related to public service delivery. Among 230 indicators, 66 of them (29%) require some specific public service to be delivered by the public sector. In a global Survey administered as part of the 75th Anniversary of the United Nations, people from all regions of the world were asked to indicate their top priority. "The immediate priority of most respondents everywhere is improved access to basic services."

While public institutions have a lead role in implementing the SDGs through the policies they make and public services they deliver, several developing countries are not well equipped to effectively deliver public services that leave no one behind. The 2030 Agenda calls for an ambitious integrated framework, which requires whole-of-government and whole-of-society approaches, including for public service delivery. The United Nations Secretary General, António Guterres, has emphasized in "Our Common Agenda" that building trust in government is one of the key actions to accelerate the implementation of the SDGs, with a special focus on improving people's experiences with public institutions and basic services.

In its seventeenth session in 2018, the Committee of Experts on Public Administration (CEPA) adopted 11 principles of effective governance. The principles, endorsed by the Economic and Social Council in its resolution 2018/12, highlight the need for pragmatic and ongoing improvements in national and local governance capabilities to achieve the Sustainable Development. CEPA has developed a wide range of commonly used strategies for operationalization of the principles. One of the principles is on competence which highlights that to perform their functions effectively, institutions are to have sufficient expertise, resources, and tools to deal adequately with the mandates under their authority. Commonly used strategies to operationalize this principle include the promotion of a professional public sector workforce, strategic human resources management, leadership development and training of civil servants, performance management, results-based management, financial management and control, efficient and fair revenue administration. Changing mindsets is essential for transformational change in the public sector and better services for all.

To provide effective, accountable, and inclusive public services, many countries around the world are delivering services through citizen centric omnichannel service delivery systems. These systems are a mechanism, which may be a stationary or a mobile service point, where citizens and/or businesses can access all relevant information relating to all public services through a “single front door”. They can conduct all transactions without the necessity of visiting multiple public offices multiple times. This can also be a vehicle for providing inclusive public service delivery to vulnerable groups. People living in sparsely populated and/or far-flung areas usually belong to disadvantaged groups, who cannot avail services offered by the brick-and-mortar or web-based OSSs. When properly designed and implemented, omnichannel service delivery systems, through OSS, add public value by : a) providing ways to increase citizen participation and awareness; b) improving regulatory delivery, c) increasing accountability; d) reducing corruption; e) enhancing social inclusion; f) decreasing fragmentation in public service delivery, thereby improving people’s satisfaction with public service delivery; g) increasing citizens’ trust in government; h) enhancing national competitiveness, thus contributing to accelerating the implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

Structure

The forum will feature presentations by experts, discussions on innovative practices for peer-to-peer learning and hands-on activities for action planning. It will be conducted in English with simultaneous interpretation in French.

Panel discussions and presentations at the meeting will be structured as follows:

- Roundtable Discussion on Transforming Public Service Delivery for a Sustainable Future
- Session 1 on New Trends in Public Service Delivery
- Session 2 on Building Blocks of Omnichannel Service Delivery
- Session 3 on Public Service Delivery Gap Assessment and Identifying Priorities for Effective and Inclusive Service Delivery
- Session 4 on Strategies and Action Plan for Omnichannel Service Delivery

Expected Outcomes

By the end of the forum, participants will have:

- Enhanced understanding and knowledge of what omnichannel service delivery systems are, and how they can contribute to the advancement of the SDGs through the presentation of innovative practices.
- Improved awareness of the mindsets required to ensure more effective, inclusive, and innovative service delivery.
- Conducted and completed a gap analysis in delivering effective and inclusive services.
- Developed strategies, roadmaps, and action plans to implement and/or strengthen innovative omnichannel systems for more effective and inclusive service delivery.

It is anticipated that actionable and innovative governance strategies, which can be applied to participants' specific contexts, will be discussed. Through group discussions and activities, the forum is also expected to strengthen collaboration among public sector leaders, policymakers, and stakeholders, which is key to addressing future challenges.

Handbook on “How to design and implement One-stop-Shops to promote better service delivery and implement the Sustainable Development Goals”

This Handbook, prepared by UN DESA/DPIDG, provides local and national governments with a set of conceptual approaches, practical strategies, and tools to improve the delivery of public services through citizen centric One-stop-Shops (OSS). It includes guidance on how to prepare an action plan to establish One-stop-Shops for public service delivery systems. The first two chapters offer an overview of the rationale and different models of OSS. The third chapter refers to key building blocks needed to design and effectively implement OSSs. The fourth chapter provides a set of questionnaires based on each of the building blocks. Chapter five includes action planning tools for the establishment of OSSs.

Principles of Effective Governance for Sustainable Development

Institutions play a critical role in the achievement of all the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and targets. However, public sector reforms needed to implement the SDGs continue to be a major and vexing challenge in many countries. In order to address this challenge concretely, the Committee of Experts on Public Administration (CEPA) has developed a set of principles of effective governance for sustainable development. The essential purpose of these voluntary principles is to provide practical, expert guidance to interested countries in a broad range of governance challenges associated with implementation of the 2030 Agenda. The principles of effective governance for sustainable development are available in six languages.

Report on Changing Mindsets to Realize the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development

The idea of producing a publication on Changing Mindsets to Realize the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development was conceived in 2019 as a follow-up to the workshop on “Mobilizing and Equipping Public Servants to Realize the 2030 Agenda”. The workshop brought together worldwide experts on the subject matter of changing mindsets and allowed for insightful discussions with many schools of public administration. It was organized by the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs (UN DESA) during the United Nations Public Service Forum in Baku, Republic of Azerbaijan.

The publication is intended as a companion document to the Curriculum on Governance for the Sustainable Development Goals and its Toolkit on Changing Mindsets in Public Institutions to Implement the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development developed by UN DESA, Division for Public Institutions and Digital Government (DPIDG). UN DESA/DPIDG's mission is to support governments in strengthening their capacities to translate the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and other internationally agreed goals into institutional arrangements, strategies, and programmes for effective service delivery and participatory, accountable, and inclusive decision-making processes.

Curriculum on Governance for the Sustainable Development Goals

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development recognizes the need to build peaceful, just and inclusive societies that provide equal access to justice and that are based on respect for human rights (including the right to development), on effective rule of law and good governance at all levels and on transparent, effective and accountable institutions". Goal 16 of the 2030 Agenda specifically calls for effective, accountable and inclusive institutions at all levels. Indeed, institutions play a critical role in the achievement of all the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and targets. However, public sector reforms needed to implement the SDGs continue to be a major and vexing challenge in many countries. The 11 Principles of Effective Governance for Sustainable Development, developed by the UN Committee of Experts on Public Administration and endorsed in 2018 by the Economic and Social Council, provide practical, expert guidance to interested countries in a broad range of governance challenges associated with implementation of the 2030 Agenda. The Curriculum Toolkits address the 11 Principles of Effective Governance. The Curriculum on Governance for the Sustainable Development Goals aims to provide a holistic and integrated framework for capacity development in the area of governance and public institutions. It aims to promote critical understanding of sustainable development issues, enhance governance capacity, and strengthen public servants' awareness of their active role in contributing to the achievement of the SDGs.

UN E-Government Survey 2024

This thirteenth edition of the United Nations E-Government Survey, released in 2024, provides a comprehensive assessment of the digital government landscape across all 193 Member States. The 2024 Survey highlights a significant upward trend in the development of digital government worldwide, with increased investment in resilient infrastructure and cutting-edge technologies. The global average value of the E-Government Development Index (EGDI) shows substantial improvement, with the proportion of the population lagging in digital government development decreasing from 45.0 per cent in 2022 to 22.4 per cent in 2024. Despite significant progress in digital government development, the EGDI averages for the African region, least developed countries, and small island developing States remain below the global average, underscoring the need for targeted efforts to bridge existing gaps. At the local level, the Survey continues to assess city portals using the Local Online Services Index (LOSI). The LOSI findings reflect steady progress but also highlight persistent disparities between national and local e-government performance, pointing to the need for focused initiatives to strengthen digital government at the municipal level. This edition introduces the new Digital Government Model Framework, providing countries with a comprehensive road map for the effective planning, implementation and assessment of digital government initiatives. A short addendum explores the integration of AI in digital government development, emphasizing the importance of maximizing benefits and minimizing risks to achieve balanced governance.

Digital Government Capability Assessment Handbook

The Digital Government Capability Assessment (DGCA) is a six-dimension framework of enablers to engage governments in discussions towards digital government transformation. Considering that digital government requires a multifaceted response from governments, the dimensions of the DGCA contain various statements which could guide governments in understanding gaps and policy entry points.

Completing a DGCA will help civil servants build new understanding of the level of digital government capability that exists in a country as a foundation for continued efforts to innovate and lead in the area of digital government and public service delivery. A DGCA is not meant to be used to benchmark capability, but rather to develop an understanding of current capability and to inform decision making about where investments are needed to increase innovation and digital government capability leading to improvements in public service delivery.

Resolution adopted by the General Assembly on 25 September 2015: Transforming our world: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development

This Agenda is a plan of action for people, planet and prosperity. It also seeks to strengthen universal peace in larger freedom. We recognize that eradicating poverty in all its forms and dimensions, including extreme poverty, is the greatest global challenge and an indispensable requirement for sustainable development.

All countries and all stakeholders, acting in collaborative partnership, will implement this plan. We are resolved to free the human race from the tyranny of poverty and want and to heal and secure our planet. We are determined to take the bold and transformative steps which are urgently needed to shift the world on to a sustainable and resilient path. As we embark on this collective journey, we pledge that no one will be left behind.

Visa

Participants are responsible for checking whether they need a visa to travel to Ethiopia and obtaining, if necessary, their own visas. It is important that you urgently contact the nearest Consulate/Embassy of the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia in your country to check the entry visa requirements or you may apply online <https://www.evisa.gov.et>. You may wish to bring a copy of your official United Nations invitation letter to the consular officials which in most cases suffices as a supporting document to apply for the visa. You can also use the following company reference number: cXUto298. It is necessary to obtain a visa prior to travelling.

Please note that in accordance with the UN rules and regulations for conferences, costs associated with visa procedures and fees, as well as airport taxes, are the responsibility of the participant and/or their institution and will not be covered by the UN.
