New Issues

New Issues

- From inline to online * and 24/7 service delivery
- Opportunities (promoting efficiency, transparency, openness, accountability, participation, innovation, networking and collaboration, etc.),
- Challenges (digital-divide, security, privacy, cyber-crime, lack of awareness or capacity to deal with IT applications, IP, etc.)

- Food security
- Financial turmoil
- Energy shortages
- Climate change

- Interdependence
- Competitiveness
- Interconnectedness
- Glocalization

*Prof. Jerry Mechling, at John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Glocalization is a blend of the global and the local (The Oxford Dictionary of New Words, 1991:134)

The term refers to the simultaneity of globalization with the increasing importance of local values and practices.

See Khondeker (2004).

Public Service Management in the Information Age

Information Age:

Shift from inline to online systems of 24/7 service delivery:

- Reduce cost and enhance efficiency
- Enhance simplified, transparent and accountable operational process
- Empower citizens to seek and access information and engage them in policy-making process

Human Resources and Institutions in Public Management

Age of Crises

- Food security
- Financial turmoil
- Energy shortages
- Climate change

To effectively respond to the challenges, there is a dire need for:

HRM: Expert bureaucracies populated by policy-motivated agents

Institution building: Performing institutions that are efficient and effective, transparent and accountable, participatory and innovative

Development Management in the Age of Globalization:

Participatory Public Administration

Macro-level & Context

Inclusive and Participatory Public Administration for Development

Age of Globalization

- Interconnectedness, competitiveness, digitalization, globalization
- Merging rational strategizing with people-centered policy-making
- Internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals

To adapt, need to:

- Know what is participatory governance and how it works
- Show concrete linkages and inputs of PA to the IADGs, the MDGs.

Our Change to Bring Success

- Focus on fewer themes and prioritize activities based on mandate, demand and capacity
- Emphasize our niche/comparative advantage
- Concentrate on results-based programs and activities and integrated products
- Strengthen our research pillar--along with the ‘advocacy’ and ‘advisory’ pillars
- Integrate the normative with the analytical and operational work
- Link public administration closer with IADGs/MDGs through intergovernmental platforms (GA, ECOSOC and CEPA)
- Assist the MS in capacity-building by developing more “how to” products (i.e., toolkits, online training, guidelines and manuals, etc.)
- Further work with UNPAN and other partners to develop joint products
- Improve internal work process, and internal and external information sharing and learning through building a Divisional knowledge base via UNPAN tools
- Do what we preach

Optimizing Our Intergovernmental Work

1. How to better engage CEPA's expertise in the work of the Division?
2. How to better serve the Committee?
3. How best to contribute to ECOSOC?

Optimizing Our Intergovernmental Work

How, as the DPADM, can we serve you better?

- Are there things that we can do better or differently to increase synergy?
- Should we forego certain practices or institute new ones towards energizing and uplifting our work to better respond to your needs?

How, as the DPADM, can we capitalize on your expertise more effectively?

- Can we reconfigure our activities, plans and programs at the Division so as to engage you more effectively?
- Can we engage you in giving advice to specific work or products that DPADM does?
- Can we think of concrete products in view of the urging need to put public administration to the center of the developmental agenda more boldly?
