

EMBEDDING CHANGE LEADERSHIP MINDSETS

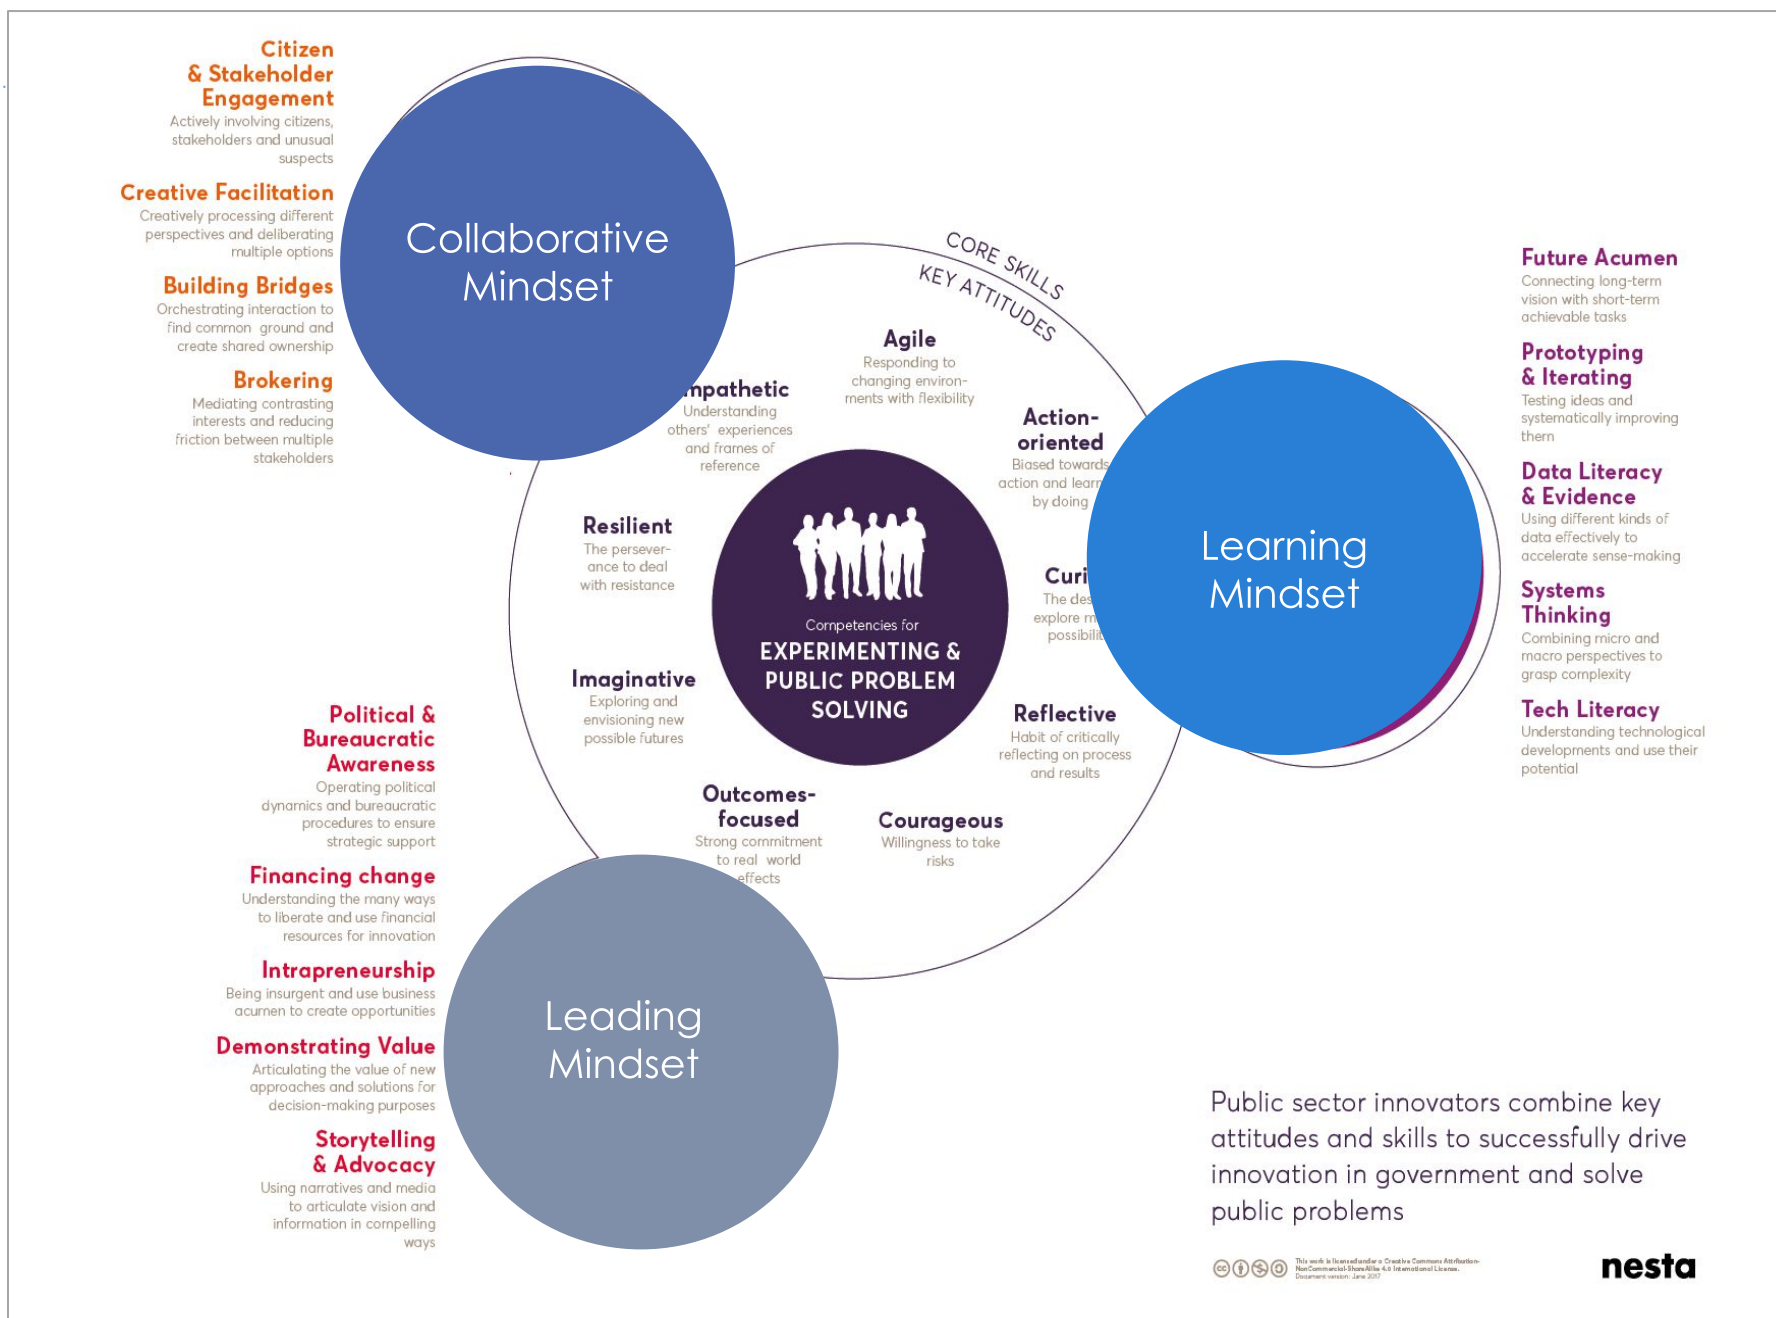

How do we disrupt our organizations to more effectively deal with the challenges we are facing?

Jesper Christiansen, PhD, Co-founder, States of Change

Empathy

Humility

Enablement

Reflective

Agile

Curious

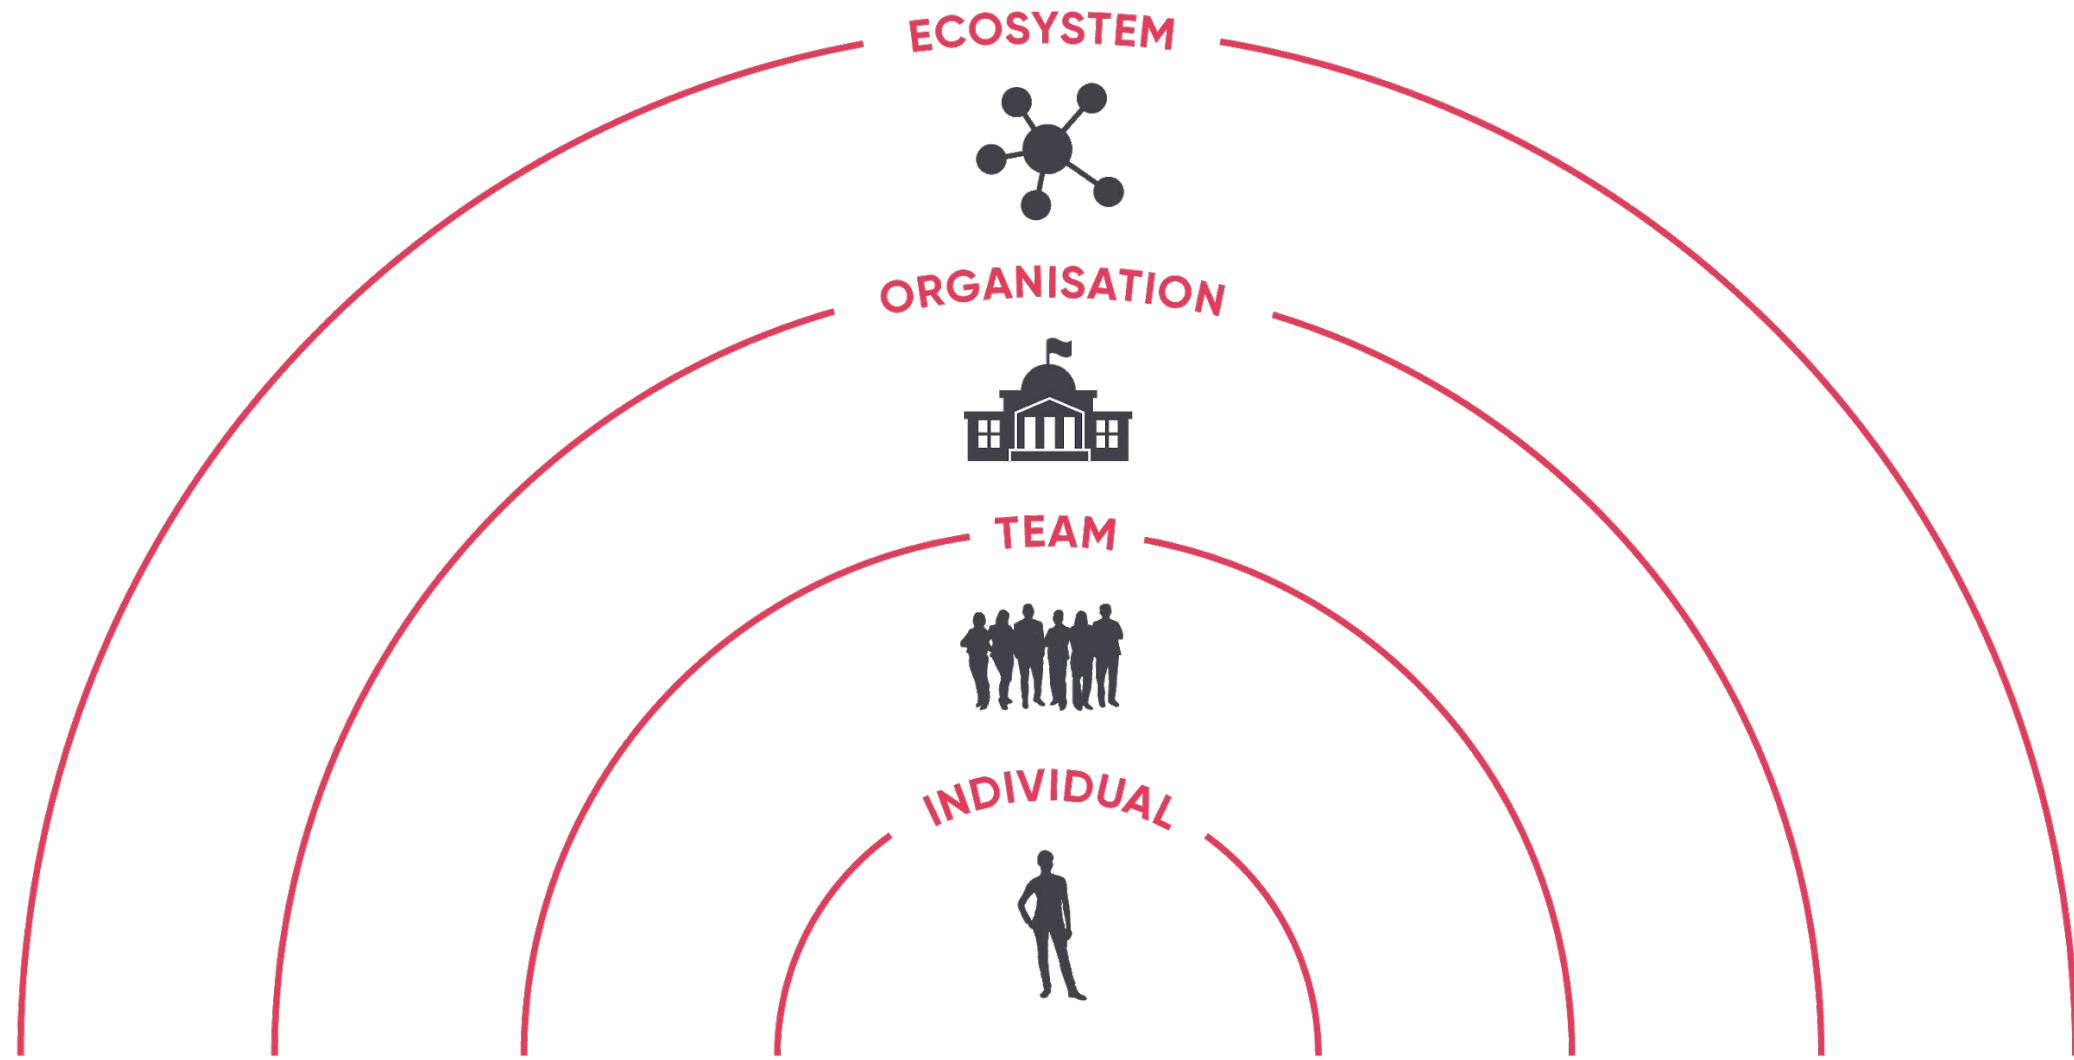

Imagination

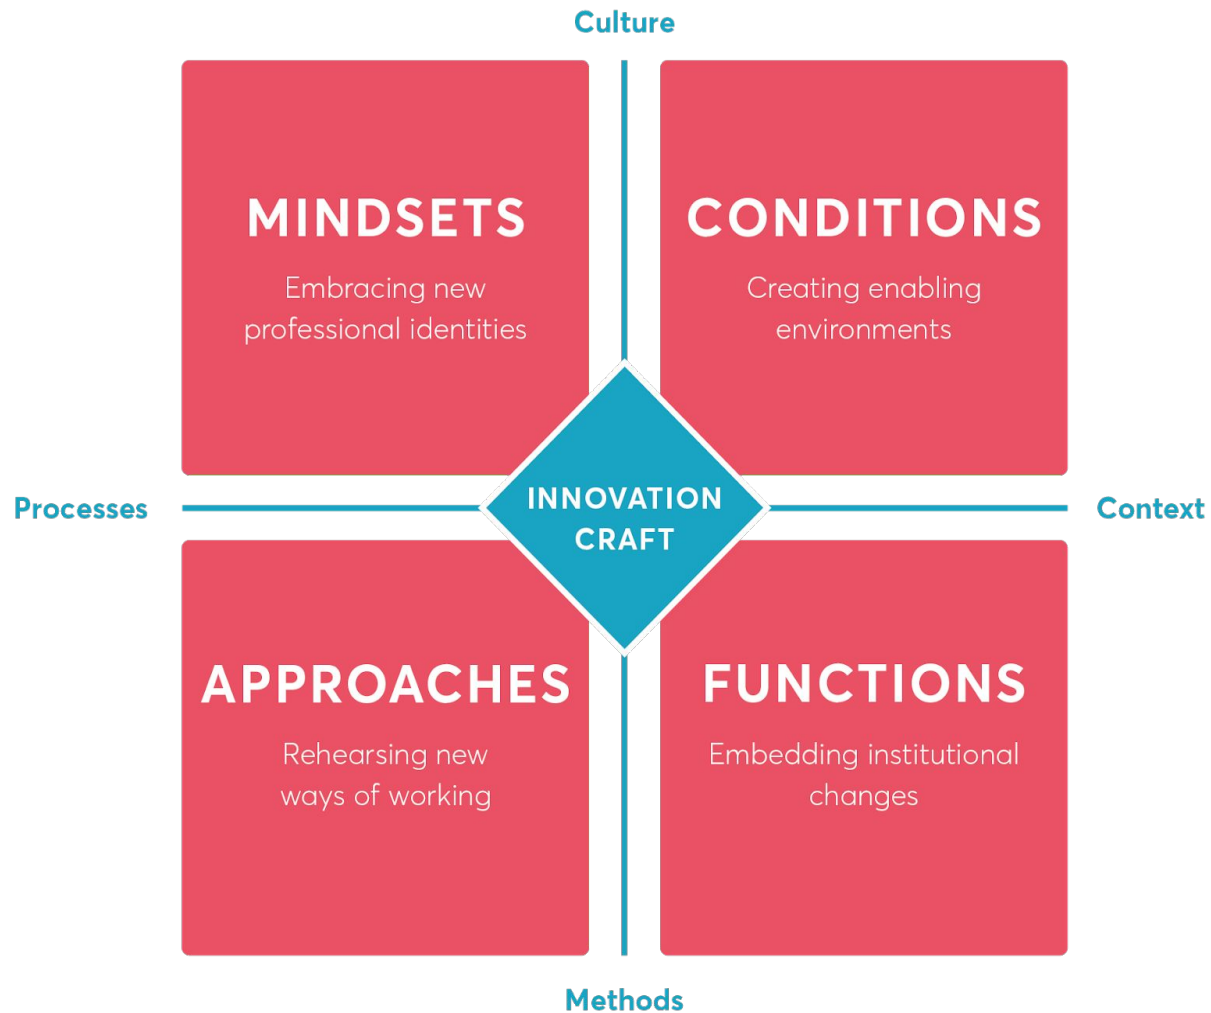

Outcomes focused

Courageous

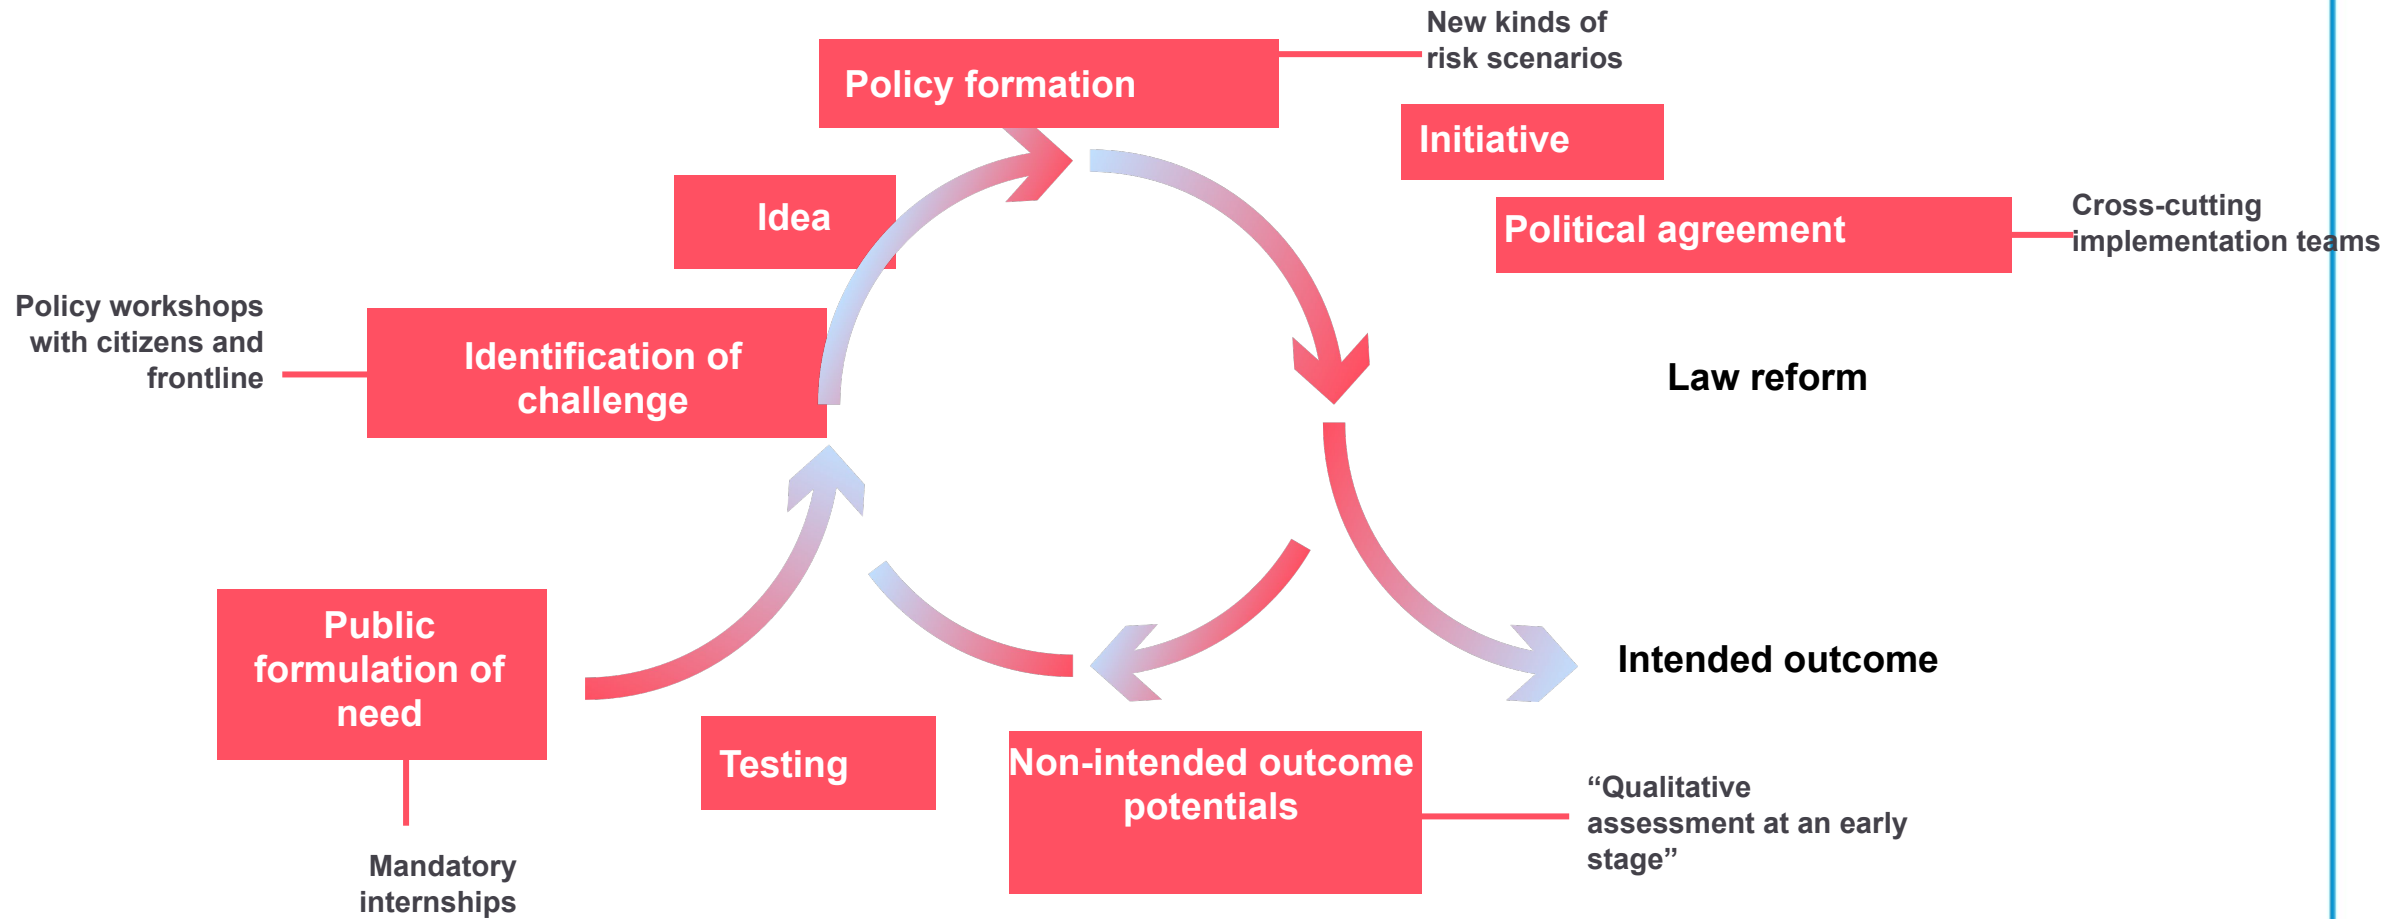

A photograph of a person standing in a doorway, holding a stack of papers and a pen. The image is overlaid with a semi-transparent red filter. The person is wearing a checkered shirt. The doorway is framed by a dark door with a silver handle. The background is a plain wall.

Learning from practice
Experimenting with the policy cycle in Denmark's Ministry of Employment

New user-centred mindset is “hacking” process

- Making the citizen and frontline worker experiences the focal point
- Making the citizen and local actors an active resource
- Boosting synergy with context: creating a constructive dialogue
- Enabling empathy at every stage in the policy cycle
- Embracing principles of user engagement at all levels

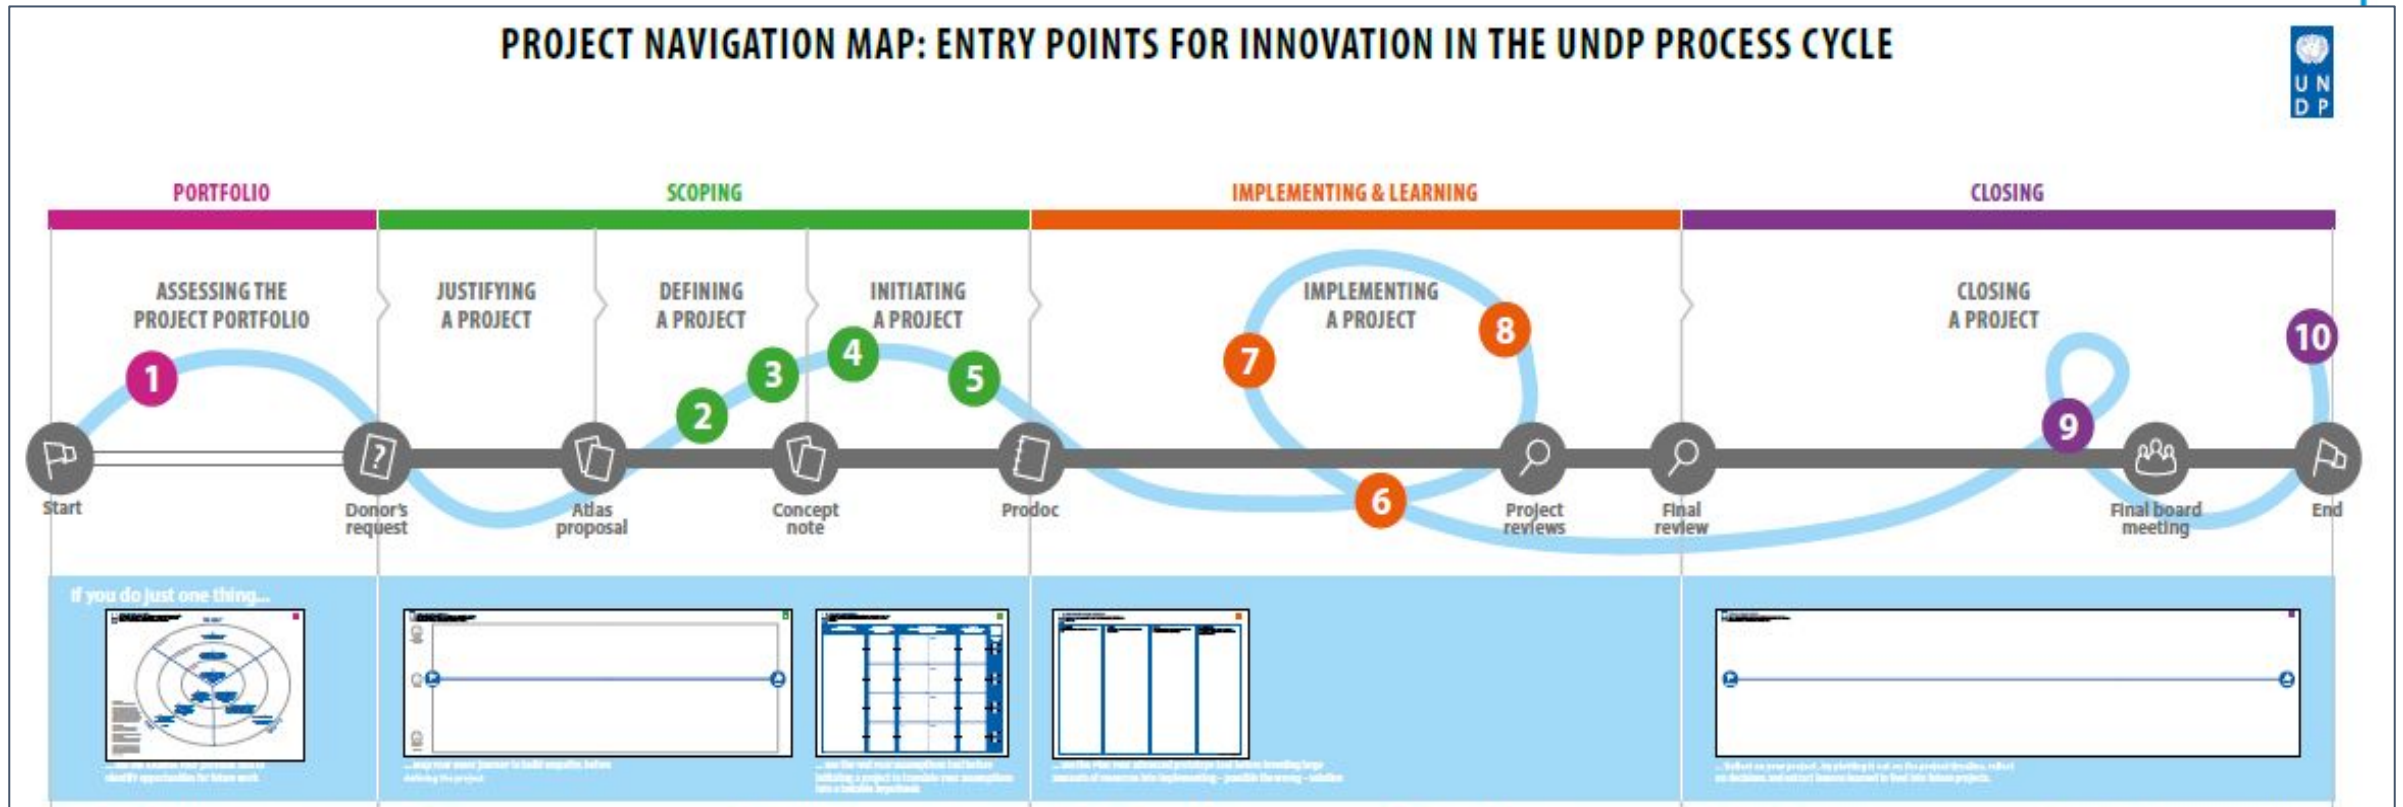

A photograph of a person sitting at a desk, viewed through a doorway. The person is holding a pen and looking at a document. The image is overlaid with a semi-transparent red filter. The text "Learning from practice" is in a white sans-serif font, and "Hacking the program cycle in UNDP" is in a bold white sans-serif font below it.

Learning from practice
Hacking the program cycle in UNDP

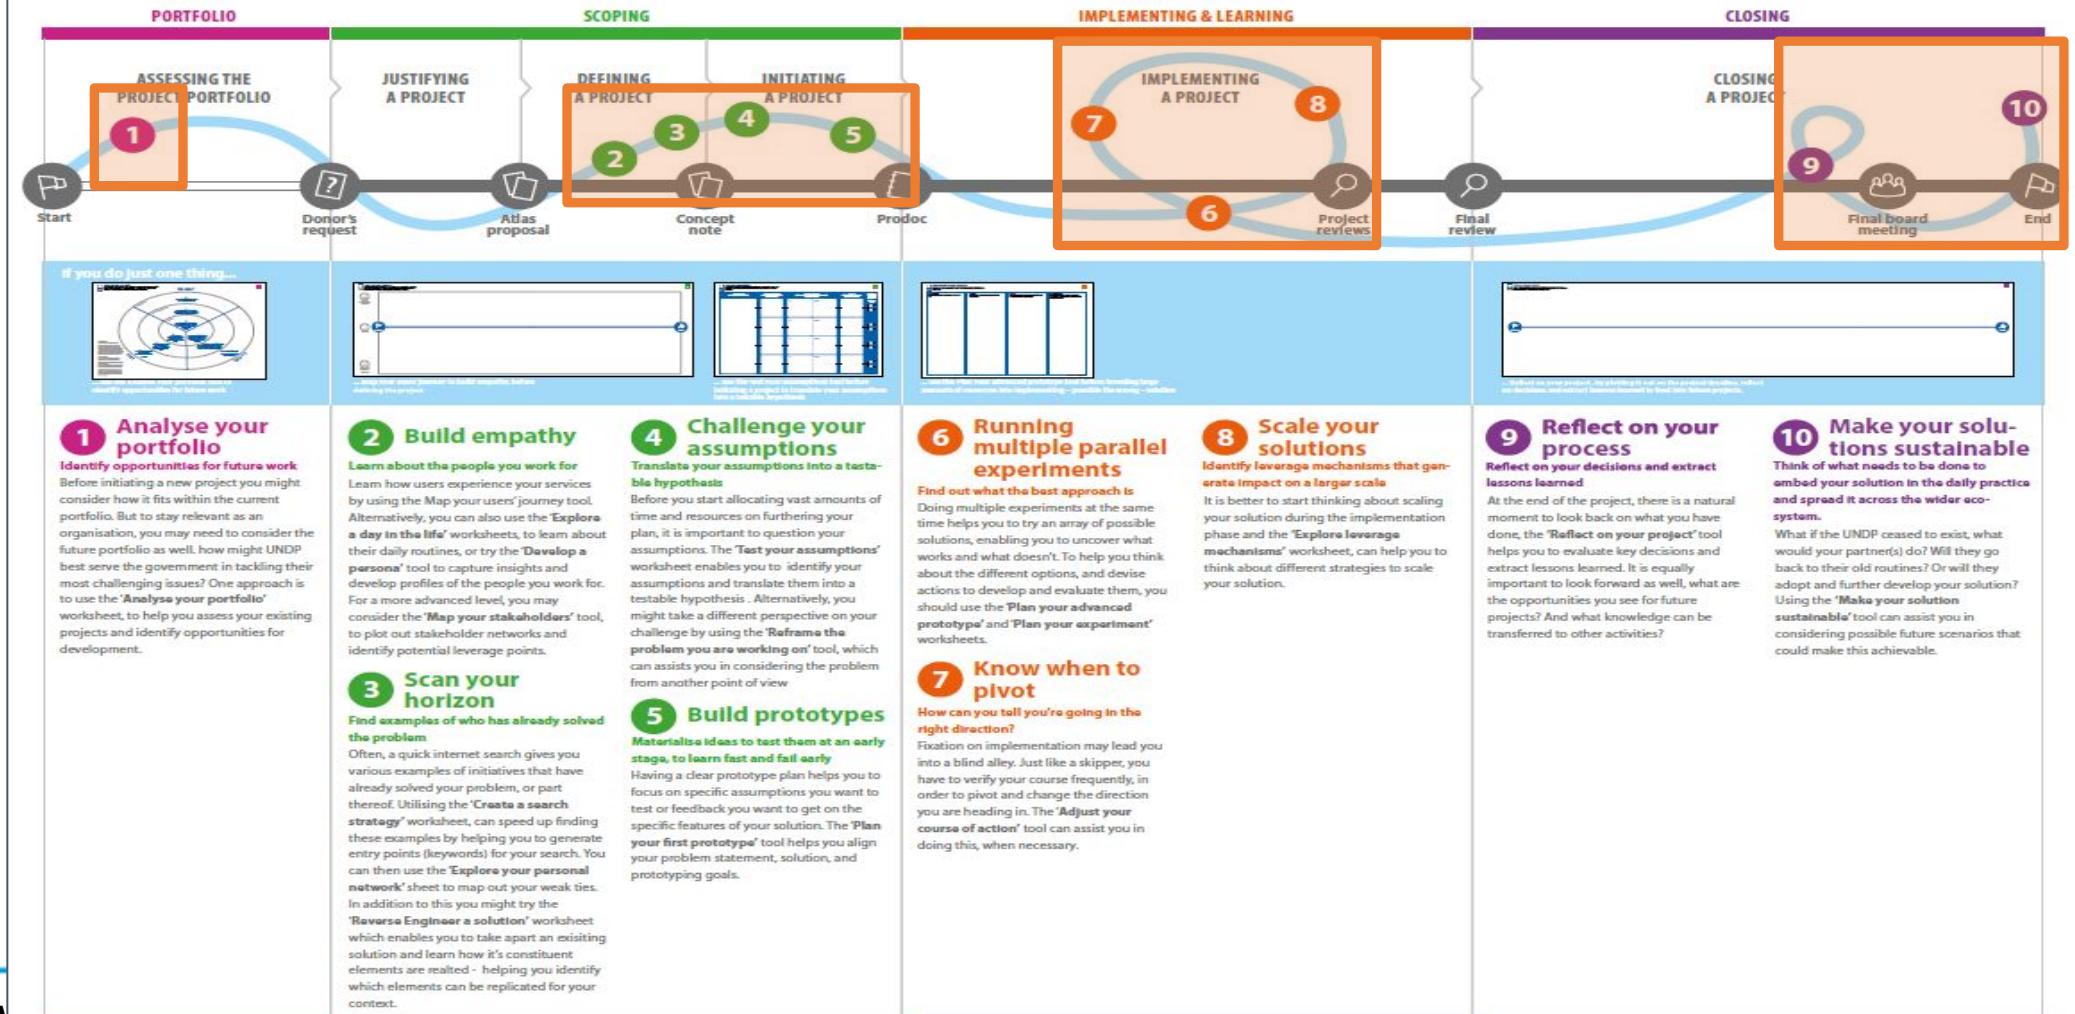

Hacking the UNDP program cycle

Hacking the UNDP program cycle

PROJECT NAVIGATION MAP: ENTRY POINTS FOR INNOVATION IN THE UNDP PROCESS CYCLE

REFLECTION EXERCISE

- What mindsets are most dominant driving change within your organization? What should be different?
- What might be ways of “hacking” your organization to enable more effective ways of working in dealing with the SDGs?

THANK YOU!

*Jesper Christiansen, PhD, Co-founder, States of Change
@JesperC_
jesper@states-of-change.org*

